United Kingdom and Continental Europe Begin Selling John Carvalho's Pulitzer Prize Submitted Memoir "The Crisis Of Our Time"

The Crisis Of Our Time By John Carvalho

Dr. John Carvalho

(EuropeNewsWire.Net, October 29, 2014) Paris, France -- Dr. John Carvalho, former Harvard University academician and winner of the prestigious United States National Research Service Award, is pleased to announce that his new, Pulitzer Prize submitted book "The Crisis Of Our Time," is now available on European bookstore websites. In this provocative opus, Carvalho, a world traveler who once lived in Rome, Italy, addresses the key issues presently afflicting both European and American society, as well as the world at large: global health and spread of infectious diseases, economic recession, planetary climate change, fiscal austerity, and the personal, psychological stress that we encounter while we try to find meaning amidst a world of apparent purposelessness. Employing his theory of "causal circular systems," derived from biology and public health research, Carvalho reveals how causes, that have mediocrity as their foundation, feed off and exacerbate effects, which, in turn, reinforce those same causes. He then applies the concept of "causal circular systems" to other problems, such as economic troubles, adverse climate change, and detrimental foreign policy.

"I am very happy to announce that my new Pulitzer Prize submitted book is available for sale in Europe," says Dr. Carvalho. "Given the many issues that are plaguing both European and American society, I feel that my manuscript is quite timely and I am glad that it is now on bookstore websites in the United Kingdom, Italy, France, Spain, Germany, Portugal, Denmark, Poland, and many other European nations. In all, we are selling in over 42 countries worldwide."

Examiner Magazine states that, "Dr. John Carvalho has led a wondrous life. His personal CV portrays a man who is a diverse careerist: scholar, scientist, statesman, world traveler, philosopher, teacher, human rights activist, and, most recently, arts and entertainment advocate for the film and music industries. This complex repertoire symbolizes an active life and an energetic mind."

Indeed, in his new book, Dr. Carvalho addresses many world problems, but does so while using a unique, artistic, literary style that highlights his many European experiences. His writings reveal that he has the intellectual and cultural background to analyze and interpret the many difficulties of Europe in this new millennium, and he is adept at providing resolutions to such struggles in his new book. Carvalho also reveals that the crises that we face as human beings have answers embedded within the great works of European philosophy and literature.

"As I recount my many travels throughout Europe, I continually draw on the richness of the European experience," says Dr. Carvalho. "While recognizing the wisdom embedded within European art, literature and philosophy, I propose that there is hope for both the developed and developing world if only we, as individuals and as a global society, take the time and make the effort to educate ourselves regarding the past, provocative thinkers who have come before us. We can discover how the perennial questions of the European tradition, which are written about in the great books, have relevance for today and can teach us much in our journey to resolve world problems. This will be especially important as the United States and Europe foster further collaboration as both attempt to improve the world in this new millennium.”

“The Crisis Of Our Time” has recently ranked #1 on “most popular autobiographies” on Ireland’s Easons, and is selling in Portugal’s oldest bookstore among other European online and brick and mortar retailers. Dr. John Carvalho states that he will be doing book signings and giving television, radio, and print-media interviews around the United States and Europe this year, and that he is furthering the message of “The Crisis Of Our Time” through film. On August 10th, 2014 he hosted a marquee, red carpet event and global book launch at the world famous Bugatta in Hollywood, California.

AuthorHouse, the world leader in print-on-demand, is the publisher for The Crisis Of Our Time. The Indiana-based company lists over 60,000 book titles, including those written by Hollywood celebrities, U.S. Senators, and best selling, career authors. The company, via collaboration, has 38,000 retailers worldwide including Amazon, Barnes & Noble, and Baker and Taylor. A number of its printed books have been converted into Hollywood motion pictures.
